LEWIS A. GRANT, Assistant Secretary of War.

NOMINATIONS—JUNE 29.

Captain Abiel L. Smith, 4th Cavalry, to be commissary of subsistence with the rank of captain, June 28, 1892, vice Hay, deceased.

G. O. 42, H. Q. A., June 24, 1892.

The following has been received from the War Department:

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, June 24, 1892.

By direction of the President the retirement from active service on this date, by operation of law, of Brigadier-General John C. Kelton, Adjutant-General of the Army, under the provisions of the act of June 30, 1882, is announced.

The Secretary of War cannot let this occasion pass without calling the attention of the Army to the valuable and distinguished services rendered by General Kelton, covering a period of more than forty years, in all of which his efforts have been used for a high and rising standard of personal and professional excellence and ambition in the Army. His influence and efforts towards establishing in the Army what was once explicitly mentioned in the Army Regulations, "a gradual and universal subordination or authority, which without loss of force shall be even, mild, and paternal; and which founded in justice and firmness shall maintain all subordinates in the strictest observance of duty," are worthy of high praise; his vigilant care of the true interests of the soldier, his professional and personal advancement and the happiness of his daily life in the Service has never relaxed.

The Secretary of War joins with the Army in expressing the wish that General Kelton may feel sure in his retirement that his earnest and wise efforts for the welfare of the Service are bearing good fruit.

S. B. ELKINS, Secretary of War.

General Kelton will repair to his home. The travel enjoined is necessary for the public service.

By command of Maj.-Gen. Schofield:

GENERAL COURT-MARTIAL CASES.

In the case of a soldier tried for certain offenses and sentenced "to be dishonorably discharged the service of the U. S., forfeiting all pay and allowances now due or to become due, except travel allowances," the reviewing authority, Gen. Frank Wheaton, says: "The court is unable in its sentence to affect travel allowances which, under Section 1290, R. S., do not score when discharge is 'by way of punishment for an offence,' hence the words 'except travel allowances' are void."

In the case of a corporal tried for an assault upon a Chinaman at the Presidio of San Francisco, the reviewing authority, Gen. Thos. H. Ruger, says: "The record shows that Lieut. Stevens, 5th Art., was called as a witness for the prosecution to contradict the testimony of the accused on account of an alleged former statement made to him by the accused relative to the matter in issue. The court erred in not sustaining the objection of the accused to the admission of this testimony, for the reason that the accused when under cross-examination had not been asked whether he had made any former statement relative to the subject-matter of the trial and inconsistent with his present testimony, and the circumstances of the supposed statement referred to, sufficiently to designate the particular occasion. Had he been asked the question and had not distinctly admitted making such statement, proof could then have been given that he did. It does not appear that the witness was afterward offered an opportunity to explain any discrepancy between his former statement and his testimony."

In the case of a soldier tried at Fort Buford for leaving his post, when on guard, and aquitted, the reviewing authority, Gen. Wesley Morris, says: "The court met with seven members present. The accused challenged one of the members on the ground that he was a principal witness for the prosecution. Thereupon, and without the alleged ground being admitted by either the challenged member or the judge advocate, the challenge was sustained. In the subsequent trial the member thus excused was not called as a witness, and the record therefore discloses no other foundation for the court's action than the naked assertion of the accused. A challenge raises an issue of fact, and unless the fact be admitted by the other side it is to be determined like any other issue, upon competent evidence. Three members having been so challenged and excused, the court was reduced to four. Instead of adjourning, the four proceeded to entertain a further challenge, three members passing upon the same and sustaining it. This action was, of course, unauthorized and illegal, and renders it necessary to disapprove all further proceedings had in this case."

FORT MYER, VA.

THE Washington Star says:

There has been a sort of water famine at Fort Myer, Va., and an old Army officer says: "The water supply may have been sufficient, but with a squadron of cavalry the conditions have changed, with no change in supply of water. Ft. Myer ought to be connected with the water supply system of Washington, and thus all dangers from failures of water be done away with, and as far as drinking water, as they do at Ft. Myer, surface water, which the post green has reported as unwholesome."

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.

Post Q. M. Sgt. Edward W. Elwell, Fort Clark, is in arrest, and is to be tried by Court-martial. He is a most excellent and capable man, but whiskey is his enemy and destroyer. He was discharged as commissary sergeant last January, and on March 12, at Washington, he again entered the Army, and two days later without passing the examination required he was appointed a post quartermaster sergeant and assigned to Fort Clark. He arrived there March 20 and his present trial indicates that he has again fallen from grace.

LIEUTENANT C. P. ELLIOTT, 4th U. S. Cavalry, at present recuperating at Beaufort, will assist the militia of South Carolina during their summer encampment. Lieut. Elliott is a South Carolinian, which makes his detail an agreeable one.

CAPTAIN HENRY C. WARD, 16th U. S. Infantry, who has been inspecting the Tennessee troops in camp near Memphis, was tendered a review by Gen. Carnes, the brigade commander. The Appeal Avalanche says: "Capt. Ward put the brigade through a part of the manual and the officers and men performed their parts admirably. The sight was grand at times. This officer has established himself in the esteem and friendship of every person with whom he has come in contact."

LIEUTENANT F. S. RICE, U. S. A., retired, is spending the summer at Bakersfield, Cal.

COLONEL H. G. LITCHFIELD, U. S. A., has returned to New York City from his visit to the battlefield of Chickamauga, Ga.

COLONEL MONTGOMERY BRYANT, 13th U. S. Inf., has been made an honorary member of Montgomery Garrison No. 48, at Ft. Supply, and presented with a gold badge.

The senior captain of artillery, John A. Darling, has held that grade for nearly a quarter of a century; the senior captain of infantry, J. T. Haskell, for 26 years, within a few months.

CAPTAIN WETHERILL, 6th U. S. Inf., left Bedlow's Island recently with his family for Jamestown, Connecticut, R. I. Capt. Wetherill will return in time to take his company to Ft. Niagara for their annual tour of target practice.

LIEUTENANT FRANK TOMPKINS, 7th U. S. Cavalry, under recent orders transfers from Edgerly's Troop I to Fuller's Troop E. This does not, however, remove him from his present station at Fort Riley, but merely equalizes the lieutenants in each troop.

CAPTAIN PHILIP READE, 3d U. S. Infantry, has made application for admission to the Massachusetts branch of the Order of Cincinnati. Gen. Wm. Hildreth, a brother of Capt. Read's grandfather, was one of the founders of the Massachusetts branch of the order, and was the last member of the family who belonged to it.

Some interesting reminiscences of the Dry Tortugas, Fort Jefferson, Fort Lafayette (three military prisons) are being given in the New York Times from Sunday to Sunday. The name of the author is not given, but we think it to be Thompson P. Moirath, formerly captain, 5th U. S. Artillery, a gentleman not unknown in the literary world.

The following-named officers registered at the Casino, Newport, R. I., during the week: Capt. Louis V. Cazzaro, U. S. A.; Lieut. M. E. Hall, U. S. Navy; Comdr. Theodore F. Jewell, U. S. N.; Surg. C. A. Siegfried, U. S. N.; Lieut. C. S. Williams, U. S. Navy; Capt. W. H. Bixby, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., and Lieut. Percy W. Thompson, U. S. R. M.

The commencement exercises of the Leavenworth High School occurred at the Opera House in that city June 23. Forty-five well equipped young people were sent forth with the prized parchment, among them Master Mark Brooke, son of Major Brooke, Surgeon, U. S. A. An address to the graduating class was delivered by Chaplain C. C. Pierce, U. S. Army.

MAJOR A. HARTSUFF, Medical Department, U. S. Army, accompanied by his wife and two daughters, left New York on June 29, per S. S. Friesland, for Europe. Dr. Hartsuff will remain abroad about six months and then return to the United States. His family will remain in Europe for about two years. The address of Dr. Hartsuff is Credit Lyons, Geneva, Switzerland.

CAPTAIN HENRY B. ROMNEY, 5th U. S. Inf., made the address on Decoration Day at the National Cemetery at Mobile, Ala., under the auspices of Goldwood Post, No. 11. It was a most eloquent tribute, but Capt. Romney is fully equal to such occasions, and we remember with pleasure an address made by him on a similar occasion some years ago, if we remember aright, at Miles City, when he was stationed at Ft. Keogh.

COLONEL E. C. MASON, 3d Inf., in relieving Lieut. H. P. McCain from duty at Ft. Snelling on his promotion to the 14th Infantry, says: "The regimental commander views the departure of Lieut. McCain with regret. He has always been prompt, intelligent and conscientious in the discharge of his military duties and gives promise of distinguishing himself in his profession. Lieut. McCain takes with him to his new field of duty the respect and esteem of his brother officers."

LIEUTENANT C. W. HOWELL, 2d U. S. Inf., is Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the Grove City College, Penn. The Collegian, published in that city for the month of June, 1892, referring to the military department of the college, says: "On the evening of June 8 the battalion was inspected by the regular inspector, and to say that they made a good showing is to put it mildly. At no time since being organized have they presented such a fine appearance and it was a matter of pride to the president and trustees, as well as a proof of the ability of Lt. Howell as an instructor. Lieut. Howell may feel satisfied with his work, and the cadets may well copy after such a model of gentleman and soldier."

THE Portland Oregonian says: "Among the passengers booked for the City of Topeka to sail from Tacoma, June 26, for Alaska, are Major Thomas Ward, A. A. G., and son; Capt. McCauley, Depot Q. M., and family; Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Lay, Miss Lay, and Mr. John Lay, Chicago."

MAJOR JAMES JACKSON, 2d U. S. Cavalry, ordered to report to the Governor of Oregon for duty with the National Guard of the State, is to take station at Portland instead of Salem. He has served a number of years on the frontier, and being an old time friend of the Oregon Militia officers, received a very hearty welcome to Portland.

THE following Army officers registered at the War Department this week: Chaplain David Wilson, U. S. A., retired; Capt. James McMurray, 1st Art.; Capt. A. Smith, 4th Cav.; Col. John M. Wilson, Engineer Corps; Capt. S. H. Lincoln, 10th Inf.; 1st Lieut. H. C. Fisher; Major Dan. Madden, retired; Capt. T. Sharp, 17th Inf., and 1st Lieut. H. D. Snyder, Assistant Surgeon.

A ST. AUGUSTINE correspondent writes: "Henry W. Lawton, who in April, 1861, enlisted as a sergeant in the 9th Indiana Volunteers Infantry, and by good hard and meritorious service in the field and on the 'plains' found the 'eagle' perched upon his shoulders in 1889, is in St. Augustine on an inspecting tour. He belongs to the Corps of Inspector Generals. Mr. W. H. Orcutt accompanies Col. Lawton."

A BERLIN despatch says: "Poulteney Bigelow and the artist, Frederick Remington, who were expelled from Russia, have arrived in Berlin. Mr. Bigelow complains of the lack of interest shown in the case by the American Charge d'Affaires at St. Petersburg. The affair has made him still more a persona grata with Emperor William. He was invited both to a state dinner and a concert given in honor of King Humbert."

IT was Asst. Surg. H. N. T. Harris, U. S. N., that was married June 21, at Philadelphia, to Miss Laura Evans, and not Paymr. H. T. B. Harris, U. S. N., as heretofore stated. In our marriage notice of last week the name, rank, etc., of the bridegroom was given correctly, but owing to some complication, the personal item referred to Paymr. Harris as being the happy man on the occasion in question. But when one gentleman is named H. N. T. Harris and the other H. T. B. Harris, there is room for occasional confusion.

CAPTAIN WALTER HOWE, 4th U. S. Artillery, on duty at Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, was at the conclusion of the recent commencement exercises there presented by the Cadet Battalion with a handsomely engraved dress sword. Capt. Howe acknowledged the gift with eloquent words and much earnest feeling of regret that he was to leave his cadets. After his words of farewell had been spoken, a hearty three cheers were given by the boys for their parting commandant, and many well-wishers for his future work. Cornell highly appreciates his past services and parts with him with regret.

REPLYING TO AN INQUIRY FROM THE WAR DEPARTMENT AS TO WHETHER THE SERVICES OF AN ARMY OFFICER ARE DESIRED IN CONNECTION WITH ANY ENCAMPMENT OF THE TROOPS OF ARKANSAS DURING 1892, THE ADJUTANT GENERAL OF THE STATE REPLIES: "OUR TROOPS WILL GO INTO CAMP SOME TIME DURING AUGUST, AND WE, THE ENTIRE FORCE FROM COMMANDER IN CHIEF TO THE 'HIGH PRIVATE IN THE REAR RANK,' WILL BE PLEASED TO HAVE THE SERVICES OF CAPT. E. P. THOMAS, OF THE 5TH U. S. CAVALRY. CAPT. THOMAS VISITED ARKANSAS IN SEPTEMBER, 1891, WHEN HE MET MANY OF OUR CITIZENS WHO ARE INTERESTED IN THE MILITIA, ALL OF WHOM WERE HIGHLY PLEASED WITH HIM. HE IS THEREFORE IN POSITION TO DO THE CAUSE MORE GOOD THAN ANY OTHER OFFICER WHO MIGHT BE DETAILED."

LIEUTENANT WM. A. GLASSFORD, Signal Corps, U. S. A., who sailed this week for France, was last week presented with a handsome sword by a number of those with whom he has been associated during his 18 years' connection with the meteorological service. In a circular announcing the relief of Lieut. Glassford for this duty, Chief Harrington, of the Weather Bureau, says: "The announcement of the severance of this officer's connection with the meteorological service, of which he has been an effective official for 18 years, is a fitting occasion to refer to the fact that he rose by his ability and energy from the lowest grade to be one of the principal assistants of the head of the bureau, and that he was distinguished for zeal and efficiency in the performance of every duty assigned him."

CAPT. KILIAN VAN RENSSELAER IS PRESIDENT AND TREASURER; GEN. ALEXANDER S. WEBB AND JAMES TALCOTT, VICE PRESIDENTS, AND COL. H. H. HADLEY, SECRETARY AND SUPERINTENDENT. THE OTHER TRUSTEES ARE MAJ.-GEN. O. O. HOWARD, COL. FRANK C. LOVELAND, GEN. FREDERICK T. LOKE, WILLIAM T. WARDWELL, JOHN S. HUVIER, HENRY HALL, SAMUEL H. HADLEY AND GEN. WAGER SWAYNE.

The mounted and fencing exercises according to the new drill regulations may doubtless prove a great advantage to a young recruit, but men in the Service from 12 to 30 years do not desire to enter Barnum's circus at termination of their enlistments. No doubt a good many soldiers, after being well instructed in the mounted exercises in all their details, will find employment in that institution.

The Post Exchange has adopted the method of keeping a print store.

GOVERNOR'S ISLAND, N. Y. H.

THIS ESCAPE ON THE EVENING OF JUNE 11 OF MILITARY CONVICT CHARLES H. LOVELAND HAS, I NOTICE, EXCITED A REPORTER OF THE NEW YORK HERALD TO FURNISH THE PUBLIC WITH A HIGHLY SEASONED ACCOUNT OF THE OCCURRENCE. THE CONVICT IS DESCRIBED AS A MAGNIFICENT ATHLETE, LOOKED UPON AS THE CRACK BOXER AND WRESTLER OF THE POST. HE WAS A FINE COOK, AND THEREBY ENJOYED SPECIAL PRIVILEGES. HE HAD BEEN, SAYS THE CHRONICLER, A CIRCUS PERFORMER, AND ARRESTED AS A DESERTER WHILE PERFORMING AS A GROUND AND LOFTY TUMBLER. SOME OF THE ACCOUNT IS TRUE, AND SOME FICTION, BUT THE FACT SEEMS TO BE THAT A TEMPORARY LACK OF VIGILANCE ON THE PART OF A SENTINEL, AT A JUNCTURE WHERE VIGILANCE HAD NOT BEFORE BEEN DEEMED NECESSARY, WAS THE REAL CAUSE, AND THE PRISONER BEING A GOOD SWIMMER AND FAVORED BY THE NIGHT, SWAM, IT IS PRESUMED, ACROSS THE CHANNEL. A SIMILAR OCCURRENCE IS NOT LIKELY TO HAPPEN AGAIN.

A CURIOUS G. C. M. CASE.

ACT. HOSP. STEWARD LOUIS E. BOUCHARD, U. S. A., WAS RECENTLY TRIED AT FORT McHENRY FOR CONSPIRACY TO THE PRACTICE OF MEDICAL PRACTICE, SILENTING THAT BEING REQUIRED TO FILE AN AFFIDAVIT THAT HE WAS NOT MARRIED, FOR THE REASON THAT CANDIDATES KNOWN TO BE MARRIED WOULD NOT BE RECOMMENDED FOR PROMOTION; HE DID, IN ORDER TO BE RECOMMENDED, SUBSCRIBE, AT FORT McHENRY, A FORGE OATH AND AFFIDAVIT, WHICH HE WAS NOT A MARRIED MAN, AND DID ON THE IMMEDIATE FOLLOWING DAY SIGN AN AFFIDAVIT AS THE SURG. GEN. OF THE ARMY FOR FILE; WHEREAS, HE HAD ON OCT. 18, 1891, AT FORT McHENRY, BEEN DULY AND LEGALLY MARRIED BY REV. J. A. DOW, TO MARGARET T. SCOTT, AND WAS MARRIED TO HER AT THE TIME OF THE TAKING BY HIM OF THE AFFIDAVIT; AND FURTHER, THAT HE, BOUCHARD, DID IN AN OFFICIAL COMMUNIQUE TO THE COMMANDING OFFICER AT FORT McHENRY, DATED APRIL 31, 1892, MAKE A STATEMENT TO THE EFFECT THAT HE MERELY ENTERED INTO A CIVIL CEREMONY WITH A FRIEND, "ON TAKING A MARRITAL PLEDGE," WITHOUT BEING OR INTENDING TO BE MARRIED IN A LEGAL SENSE, WHICH WAS WHOLLY DEceptive.

THE COURT FOUND HIM GUILTY OF THE OFFENCES SPECIFICALLY CHARGED AGAINST HIM, WAS SUBMITTED TO THE COURT, AND RECORDED. IT WOULD APPEAR THAT THE COURT WAS IMBLED IN ITS JUDGMENT BY THE DEFENCE SET UP BY THE PARTIES TO THE MARRIAGE CEREMONY, SHOWN TO HAVE TAKEN PLACE. KING ROMAN CATHOLIC, DID NOT CONSIDER IT BINDING BECAUSE PERFORMED BY A PROTESTANT CLERGYMAN, AND THAT THE MARRIAGE WAS NEVER COOSUMMATED, AND THAT IT WAS A BAPTICAL MARRIAGE, TO BE FOLLOWED BY A LEGAL MARRIAGE AFTER THE PRISONER SHOULD HAVE SECURED AN APPOINTMENT AS HOSPITAL STEWARD. IT IS IN EVIDENCE THAT THE PRISONER PROCTED A HOUSE TO MARRY, EMPLOYED A CLERGYMAN TO PERFORM THE MARRIAGE CEREMONY BETWEEN HIMSELF AND THE WOMAN NAMED IN THE LICENSE, MADE DUE AND PROPER ANSWERS TO THE INTERROGATORIES OF THE CLERGYMAN, AND THAT THE COUPLE WERE DECLARED MARRIED. UNDER THE LAW OF MARYLAND NO FURTHER ACTION COULD ADD TO THE LEGALITY OF THAT PROCEEDING. IT IS UNDER THE LAW OF THE LAND AND NOT UNDER INDIVIDUAL RELIGIOUS THEORIES THAT PERSONS ARE TO BE HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR THEIR ACTS, WHEN SUCH ACTS COME INTO QUESTION FOR CRIMINAL COURTS TO DETERMINE. FVR. BOUCHARD WILL BE RELEASED FROM ARREST AND RESTORED TO DUTY.

The name of the encampment, "Camp Kendrick," brings to mind a memoir of the late Prof. Kendrick, recently published, of which some mention may be fitly made. The volume in question contains the address delivered at the funeral services held in New York on May 27, 1891, by Rev. Marvin B. Vincent, D. D., and an obituary by Prof. Samuel E. Tillman, who succeeded Prof. Kendrick at the academy as professor of chemistry, mineralogy, etc. The frontispiece is an excellent likeness of the professor, beneath which is his autograph. Equally faithful to life are the portraits drawn by Dr. Vincent and Prof. Tillman, from which brief extracts are here made. The address by Dr. Vincent says: "He was a universal favorite. The courtly old man won all hearts to himself by his quaint courtesy and genuine kindness of spirit. The charm of his personality lay far deeper than conventional suavity. It was the outcome of a kindly and generous nature. It was said of him that he was never heard to say an unkind word of any one, even of those who might have merited severe censure; and in this it is heartily to be wished that he might be imitated by some of those who make larger professions than he did. It is this genuine courtesy, this affectionateness, this genial kindness which, more than his well deserved military honors, enbraces him in so many hearts to-day. Amidst the reserve and coldness and brusqueness which so often mark the intercourse of men, such a warm, genial spirit was a light, a benediction, and a lesson, an appeal for a larger and better estimate of human nature. . . . The soldier has served out his time. The campaign has been bravely accomplished. The camp fire is out, the reveille has sounded, the tent is struck, and the veteran is away forever and at rest. God's peace be with him and with us who stay behind."

Professor Tillman gives a biographical sketch of his predecessor and many interesting personal reminiscences, and closes with the following summary of his life and character: "Considering the limitations to which all terrestrial things are subjected, it would be unreasonable to expect a more perfectly filled or completely rounded life than was that of Prof. Kendrick. He had a long, useful, honored and honorable career. Retiring at his own request, his gracious nature, mellowed and enriched by the ripening of years, showed no blighting touch of age; no taint of bitterness marred the sweetness of his relations with his fellow men; he who had ever followed the golden rule of charity, whose lips were sealed when he could not utter praise, reaped the reward of persistent kindness, and passed his declining years overwhelmed with friends and burdened with ever increasing appreciation. Even in death his last desire was granted, for his obsequies at West Point were exactly as he had expressed the hope that they would be. In the bright peacefulness of that May afternoon he was borne to rest under his country's flag; the sunset glory, flooding hill and plain, lighted up the closing scene—a divine benediction upon the noble and useful life."

"He was a man, take him for all in all,
We shall not look upon his like again."

THE U. S. battleship Texas was successfully launched at the Norfolk, Va., Navy-yard on June 28, a few minutes after 11 A. M.

Although the weather was bad, fully 15,000 people witnessed the launch. Miss Madge Houston Williams, a granddaughter of General Sam Houston, christened the vessel as she began to slide towards the water. Among the guests on the main platform were Lieut. W. S. Cowles, Pay Director Eldridge, Commodore A. W. Weaver, Passed Assistant Engineer Kenneth McAlpine and Assistant Surgeon Hooe, U. S. Navy.

Not a hitch of any kind occurred, and Naval Constructor Francis T. Bowles, who has superintended the construction of the Texas from beginning to end, was overwhelmed with congratulations.

After the launching Commodore Weaver, commandant of Navy-yard, gave a luncheon to the Washington and Maryland visitors and to the officers of the Brazilian cruiser Almirante Barroso. All work was suspended for the day. The officers, foremen and clerks enjoyed a banquet in the moulding loft, and the workmen at Caswell Hall in Portsmouth. Five hundred workmen from the Richmond Locomotive Works, where the Texas's engines and boilers were built, headed by a band, came down and marched over to the yard.

AS MORE OR LESS CONFUSION HAS ARisen IN THE MATTER OF NAVAL PROMOTION BY REASON OF THE LONG DELAY IN THE SMITH AND GRAHAM CASES, THE FOLLOWING SHOWING PROMOTIONS DUE SINCE JAN. 1, WILL BE INTERESTING:

FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS—FIRST SESSION.

By a vote of 94 to 80 the House on Monday last refused to adopt the report of the conference on the Military Academy Appropriation bill. The bill now goes back to conference, together with a resolution declaring that it is the judgment of the House that in the adjustment of the differences between the two Houses there should be inserted an item of $15,000 for an electric light plant for the Academy in lieu of the $30,000 proposed for a gas plant.

The Senate Committee on Military Affairs has made a favorable report on the bill to give Capt. Wm. R. Steinmetz, U. S. A., the rank and pay of major on the retired list; also on the bill for the erection of a pedestal for the statue of Gen. Sherman and for the enlargement of Jefferson Bks., Mo.

An estimate of $50,000 has been submitted to Congress by the Secretary of War for rebuilding the barracks destroyed by fire at Fort McKinney, Wyo.

VARIOUS NAVAL ITEMS.

MESSRS. YARROW have undertaken to build a stern-wheel gunboat in 36 days for the French to use against the natives of Dahomey. The boat is 100 feet long, draws 18 inches, and has a carrying capacity equal to 400 troops.

FRENCH marine architects, it is reported, have expressed considerable surprise at the English being able to build so large and fine a battleship as the Royal Sovereign in two years and a half. They sometimes take from five to ten years for their first-class battleships.

The suit of Nathaniel McKay against the United States for $284,554 for the construction of the monitor Squadron, which has been pending for 27 years, was decided in the Court of Claims in his favor for $115,117, being $30,090 less than allowed him by the naval experts who investigated the case.

We are informed that on her recent trip from Portland, Ore., to Port Townsend, Wash., the Charleston was so unfortunate as to take the bottom with one of her propellers in making the turn from the Willamette to the Columbia, bending two blades somewhat, and reducing the speed of the ship nearly a knot an hour.

THE steamship Miranda, of the Red Cross Line, with the Peary relief party on board, sailed from New York June 27 for St. Johns, N. B. The party will leave the Miranda at St. Johns and go on board the sealing steamship Kite, which will sail direct to Greenland. It is intended to make the first stop at Godhavn, Disco. From Disco the party will go to Upernivik. They will then strike Melville Bay. North of Cape York, at McCormick Bay, is the camping ground of the Peary party. Should it be found that Mr. Peary and his followers are not there, a large quantity of provisions will be landed. Should the conditions prove favorable, it is the intention of the scientists to examine Humboldt Glacier and to obtain as many specimens as may be had of Arctic life for the Academy of Natural Sciences.

MARINE CORPS.

Captain M. C. Goodrell's present leave of absence is extended for one month, at the expiration of which he will report at the Marine Barracks, League Island, for duty.

THE GOWING COURT-MARTIAL.

THE G. C. M. for the trial of Chief Engr. B. C. Gowing, U. S. N., on charges of drunkenness and absence without leave, met at the Navy-yard, New York, June 29. Chief Engr. Gowing was present with his counsel, Capt. Samuel Mercer, U. S. M. C.

Capt. C. S. Norton, of the receiving ship Vermont, testified, according to the published reports, that on June 6 he met Mr. Gowing on the cob dock and that accused had the appearance of a man who was under the influence of liquor. Though the captain did not smell the liquor on him, that was the impression he received. Mr. Gowing did not salute him nor give any sign of recognition. Capt. Norton said that the failure of Mr. Gowing to salute him might have been due to his being in deep thought at the time.

Lieut.-Comdr. J. H. Dayton, executive officer of the Vermont, testified that on the morning of June 6, when Chief Engr. Gowing reported his division to him, he noticed that his manner was peculiar. Mr. Gowing's voice was not the same as usual and his walk was not as usual. Notwithstanding Mr. Gowing carried out his orders correctly, and the witness said he considered him fit for duty. At luncheon Mr. Gowing joined in the conversation in a rational manner.

After supper the commanding officer requested the witness to warn Mr. Gowing in regard to drinking.

In the second day's trial, June 30, Mr. W. S. Volz, an employee, testified that he had never seen Mr. Gowing under the influence of liquor, and Corp. McGloin, of the Vermont, testified that he was on duty on June 6 and saw no sign of liquor or anything unusual about Mr. Gowing. L. W. Demeritt testified that he was in the shipping department at the yard on June 6, and saw nothing strange in his condition.

U. S. COURT OF CLAIMS.

Robert Thornton v. The United States.

NOTT, J., delivered the opinion of the court.

The claimant originally enlisted in the Marine Corps, at Washington, in 1878. He was discharged at Mare Island, Cal., in 1885, but immediately re-enlisted for a term of five years. In 1889 he was discharged at Washington by order of the Secretary of the Navy, two years before his term of enlistment had expired, upon his own request. No condition upon his discharge was imposed by the Secretary, except that it was to be "upon settlement of his accounts." He sought commutation or travelling expenses in place of transportation from Washington, the place of his discharge, to Mare Island, the place of his last enlistment. It was refused by the Second Comptroller upon the following grounds:

"Since 1882 it has been the practice of the accounting officers and the War Department to refuse in all cases travelling allowances to soldiers discharged at their own request and for their own convenience. The expression of the law that 'when a soldier is discharged from the service' has reference to an involuntary discharge, and not to a case where the soldier is discharged upon his own request."

The law upon which the claimant rests his demand is Revised Statutes, Section 1290, which, as amended by the Act 27th February, 1877 (19 Stat. L. p. 244), is in these words:

"When a soldier is discharged from the service, except by way of punishment for an offence, he shall be allowed transportation and subsistence from the place of his discharge to the place of his enlistment, enrollment, or original muster into the service."

The ambiguity of the statute was brought into it by an amendment. Originally it read that "When a soldier is honorably discharged from the service he shall be allowed transportation, etc., etc. The act of 1877 struck out the word 'honorable' and introduced the words 'except by way of punishment for an offence.'" As it now stands, it expressly declares one single exception, and seems to imply that in all other cases whatsoever the discharged soldier shall be allowed transportation and subsistence from the place of his discharge to the place of his enlistment. The law and usage, therefore, was from 1882 to 1877 that a soldier should not receive transportation from the place of his discharge to the place of his enlistment if his discharge at that place was brought about by his own request. The usage, if not the law, since 1877 has continued to be that a soldier will not receive transportation unless the discharge was brought about by the expiration of the term of enlistment or by the voluntary action of the Government.

The term "honorable discharged" frequently appears in the statutes and in military orders and correspondence; but the form of the discharge given to soldiers does not use the term "honorable" or "honorable," or dishonorable or dishonorable. The Army Regulations, 1883, 185, 186, provided that blank discharges on parchment would be furnished from the Adjutant-General's Office, and that the cause of discharge would be stated in the body of the discharge. It was therefore frequently a question with courts and accounting officers, whether a soldier was or was not honorably discharged. In Kelly's Case (5 C. Cls. R. 476-483), the Second Comptroller held that the document itself not saying whether the discharge was honorable or dishonorable, the fact must be determined by proof; and he held that the discharge was dishonorable; but the Adjutant-General certified that the instrument was in the usual form of discharge given to honorably discharged soldiers.

The amendment enacted by the act of 1877, in striking out the word "honorable" and at the same time inserting the words "except by way of punishment for an offence," was undoubtedly intended to relieve courts and accounting officers from the embarrassment of determining whether a discharge was honorable or dishonorable. The question now is whether the amendment did more than this—whether it overruled the rulings and usage of the accounting officers for a period of 45 years and gave or was intended to give, transportation to soldiers whose discharge at the time and place of discharge was of their own seeking—was a favor and not a right.

Whatever may have been the understanding of the committee which reported the amendment, or the members who voted for it, the court must take the intent of Congress as it stands expressed in the statute which they have made. As the law stood by departmental construction of more than 45 years of unquestioned usage, a soldier honorably discharged was entitled to transportation from the place of his discharge to the place of his enlistment, except in cases where he was discharged before the expiration of his term of enlistment at his own request. The amendment came and changed the law as thus administered. The re-enacted law declares an exception which is not the exception of the executive departments. Exceptio probat regulam. Where a statute declares one exception, the judiciary cannot declare that another was intended. Here the statute as amended declares that "when a soldier is discharged from the service" "he shall be allowed transportation and subsistence from the place of his discharge to the place of his enlistment," "except" when his discharge is "by way of punishment for an offence." In this case the discharge not having been for the punishment of an offence the case came within the rule and not within the exception.

The judgment of the court is that the claimant recover of the defendants the sum of $141.30.

A BOARD consisting of Prof. Wm. W. Hendrickson, S. J. Brown and P. R. Alger, with Lieut. T. D. Griffin as recorder, will convene at the Navy Department this week to examine Lieut. O. G. Dodge for appointment as professor of mathematics.

FRIDAY of this week, July 1, was New Year's Day for the Services, the fiscal year 1891-92 having been discharged by expiration of term of service on June 30. The advent of a new fiscal year always makes official business lively.

The astonishing report comes from the Indian Territory that the Arapahoes and Cheyenne Indians refuse to accept the beef issue from the Government. They were not wont to do so.

ARMY ORDNANCE WORK.

In the JOURNAL of June 25 we gave a summary of an article upon the modern high-power guns and mortars of the Army, published in the New York Sun. A second instalment of this story may also be of interest to our readers.

Two questions came up when the system of forged steel guns was adopted. The first was as to the material to be employed. It appears that as a consequence of a careful study by the Ordnance Department of the reports on the metals exhibited at the Paris Exposition of 1878 it was ascertained that a steel answering best the requirements of gun steel was a forged steel of mild quality, treated as follows: After forging, the metal was annealed to relieve it from the strains produced by hammering; it was then tempered in oil and again annealed to relieve the tensions produced by the tempering. The resulting metal possessed a high tensile strength and elastic limit, with a very considerable degree of ductility, thereby securing the important quality of toughness. Accordingly, about twenty of the steel works of this country were invited to produce such gun forgings; but only one or two could respond. The Midvale Steel Works could and did furnish hoops, but could not at first produce the tubes and jackets, which were, accordingly, ordered from abroad, under the specifications prescribed by the department for oil-tempered and annealed steel.

The steel having thus been selected, the next question was as to the shrinkages to be employed in building up guns. The general theories and formulas on the subject had been ascertained from foreign sources, but nothing was known as to their accuracy or practical value, or the limits of accuracy in which it was necessary to work in machining the parts for assemblage. Accordingly, the department adopted the practice in each type of gun, of assembling with the shrinkages proposed for the gun a short cylinder, representing a section of the gun through the powder chamber, and afterwards dismantling it. In this way it was enabled to judge of the practical value of the formulas. The revised results of these investigations were published in "Notes on the Construction of Ordnance, No. 35." These reports on hoop tests and the revision of the formulas have excited great interest abroad, and are referred to as authorities on the subject to which they pertain.

Meanwhile, in 1884, the Ordnance Department having long recognized the superiority of moulded powders of prismatic form with a central perforation, induced the Messrs. Du Pont to undertake the manufacture of similar powders in this country, furnishing them with information regarding the construction of prismatic powder presses, dimensions of grains, etc. The department also procured samples of brown or cocoa powder from Europe, which were tested and supplied to the powder makers for analysis. This type of powder was very soon successfully produced in this country.

In 1885 the Ordnance Department gave the Midvale Steel Works an order for a complete set of steel forgings for an 8 inch steel gun, the largest calibre that had been attempted in the United States up to that time; it also gave the Cambria Iron Works an order for the hoops of a 10-inch rifle, of which the tube, jacket, and trunnion hoops were to be procured abroad. During that year and the next experiments gave important results touching the longitudinal strength conferred on a gun from frictional resistance due to shrinkage, and the efficiency of such frictional resistance as a coupling between tube and jacket to prevent separation in firing. Experiments were also made to determine the effect upon the qualities of oil-tempered steel by exposing it to a high furnace heat; also to a brief contact with molten metal. These experiments grew out of circumstances in which the necessity had occurred for separating cylinders after they had been shrunk together—a necessity which is likely to occur now and then in building up guns by shrinkage, even where considerable care is exercised in the supervision. Still other experiments were made for working up a suitable obturating primer for large guns, by which the escape of gases through the vent should be prevented. These were ultimately successful. Owing to the expansion under fire of the first experimental 8-inch rifle, which necessitated the entire hooping of the tube up to the muzzle, exhaustive experiments were made in 1887 to ascertain the effect of the final process of annealing on oil-tempered steel in removing the tensions set up in the metal by the oil tempering. The results showed that severe strains in the simply oil-tempered metal were eliminated in those oil-tempered cylinders which had been subsequently annealed. These experiments led to the introduction in the specifications for gun steel of a provision requiring that initial tension rings should be taken for test from all the larger forgings to ascertain that the annealing is sufficiently thorough.

Various other important experiments were made in subsequent years. At length, in 1888, Congress appropriated money for establishing the Army Gun Factory at Watervliet Arsenal, for completing the guns in hand, and for procuring rifled mortars. From that time practical work could go forward more rapidly. The most suitable rifling for the new mortars was ascertained, and year before last the department devised an experimental carriage to allow of the free recoil of a cannon when fired upon it. This carriage is used in connection with an instrument obtained from abroad and known as a recoil velocimeter, the object of which is to measure the velocity of recoil of a gun at each instant of its motion. The piece being fired without impediment to its free recoil, such a measure of the velocity of recoil furnishes a complete history of the action of the powder upon it. Being afterwards fired upon its proper carriage the effect of the combined action of the powder and recoil-checking appliance is made known. Data are thus furnished for determining the effect of the recoil-checking appliance, and of suitably modifying it, if need be, a matter of great importance in modern carriages where the recoil of powerful pieces is taken up in a very short distance. The recoil velocimeter and free recoil carriage also serve for a number of interesting ballistic determinations, as, for instance, the powder pressures along the bore of the gun, the maximum pressure, the velocity of the projectile, etc. With these data it is easy to proportion the strength of the gun at the different points to withstand safely the powder pressure to which it will be subjected.

The list of guns made by the Ordnance Department includes one 3 inch mountain gun; one hundred 3.2 inch field guns, with 25 more under manufacture; twenty-five 3.6 inch guns, of which the type gun has been tested; sixteen service 3.6 inch mortars; ten siege 5 inch guns; ten 7 inch rifled howitzers; fifty 8 inch muzzle loading rifles, converted from smooth bores by steel tubes, besides the one hundred and sixty previously converted with wrought iron tubes; finally, the following guns and carriages of large calibre:

Eight-inch B. L. rifle, steel—2 type guns tested; 13 service guns completed; 47 under manufacture or contract. Ten-inch B. L. rifle, steel—One type gun under test; 82 service guns under manufacture or contract. Twelve-inch B. L. rifle, steel—One type gun under test; 49 under manufacture or contract. Twelve-inch M. L. mortars, cast-iron hooped—One type tested. Twelve-inch B. L. mortars—One type under test; 30 service mortars completed; 43 under manufacture. Twelve-inch B. L. mortar, all steel—One type under test.

Carriages—Eight inch converted rifle carriages—One hundred and seven service carriages completed; twenty undergoing alterations; nearly completed. Fifteen-inch service carriage—Thirty-six completed; fifteen undergoing alteration, nearly completed. Eight-inch carriages—One type barbette and one type disappearing carriage under manufacture. Ten-inch carriages—Two type disappearing carriages under manufacture; one type disappearing carriage under test. Twelve-inch carriages—One type gun-lift carriage under test; one type barbette carriage under manufacture. Twelve-inch mortar carriages—Two type carriages under test; eight service carriages under manufacture. Appropriations available for about eighteen more carriages.

Other Experimental Guns—One type 10-inch B. L. gun, cast-iron, wire-wrapped, under test; two 10 inch B. L. guns, steel, wire-wrapped, under manufacture; one type 12-inch cast-iron gun tested; one type 12-inch cast-iron gun type under test; one 12-inch cast-iron gun, hooped and tubed, under test.

The system of carriages is under revision, owing to the accuracy of modern guns, which compels more cover than the barbette carriage. The article from which we quote states that the modern barbette carriage does not differ in general principle from that used during the war, except that it is arranged to return into firing position automatically, termed the gravity return, and in place of friction clamps to take up the recoil hydraulic brakes are used, fitted with throttling bars to give a constant resistance. The disappearing carriages will be used for 8 and 10 inch guns, and either gun lifts or casemates for 12 inch guns. The disappearing carriage permits the gun to fall behind the cover of the parapet in recoil. After being loaded in its lower position, it is raised again to the firing position by means of the pressures accumulated during recoil. The gun lift carriage consists of an ordinary barbette carriage mounted on a hydraulic elevator, which is raised and lowered as an elevator before and after firing. The casemate carriage must permit of training and elevating the piece about the embrasure as a centre—the so-called minimum embrasure carriage. The 16-inch gun will be mounted by pairs in turrets. They pivot also at the embrasure for elevation. The direction is given by turning the turret itself. As to mortars, new carriages have been required for them on account of the severe shock of discharge; but this shock is overcome by placing hydraulic brakes in the line of the recoil, or nearly so which thus serve as a buffer between the piece and the platform. The piece is restored to its firing position by means of springs, or air compressed sufficiently for that purpose by the recoil and possessing sufficient initial compression to retain the piece in the firing position until fired. The Ordnance Department has procured, or has under manufacture, or now under test, a number of types of these various kinds of carriages, excepting the casemate and the turret.

We understand that committee work for this session of Congress is now practically at a close. The only one of the Service committees to hold a session this week was the House Naval, which barely succeeded in getting a quorum. The adoption of a favorable report on the bill remitting the penalties on the Concord and Bennington was the only business transacted by this committee.

Chairman Outhwaite would like to dispose of the Artillery-Infantry Reorganization bill before the session closes, but it is almost impossible to get the members to attend the sessions these hot days, so that this bill, like many others, will probably be laid aside until next session. Chairman Herbert, of the House Naval Committee, has likewise despaired of getting much more work out of his committee. The Engineers bill, which excited such lively debate in the committee a month or two ago, is thought to be doomed, and the same fate, it is feared, will attend all other measures relating to the personnel. The talk of a joint committee of the two Houses to sit during the recess is heard again, but the indications are that it will end in talk. The members will be too busily engaged during the recess in political matters to spare any time for the consideration of naval subjects, so that even if a committee were appointed the results might not be important. About the only hope there is now for naval legislation in the House is the adoption of Mr. Herbert's resolution providing for a day for the consideration of business reported from the Naval Committee. The committee had made a request for June 28. Failing to get this, another day will be insisted upon. Should the request be granted the following are the measures that will be pushed for consideration: H. R. 9349, for the transfer of the Revenue Marine; H. R. 5753, to increase the number of enlisted men; S. 139, to terminate the reduction in the Engineer Corps; H. R. 9022, providing for examination of officers of the Marine Corps, and a number of private bills, including the one for the relief of Admiral Jouett.

THE General Order issued by Secretary Elkins on the retirement of Gen. Kelton is a worthy tribute to a distinguished officer, whose prolonged and honorable service and personal traits have made him a host of friends in and out of the Army. What is specially noticeable in this order is the stress laid upon Gen. Kelton's earnest endeavors to better the condition of the enlisted men. It is certainly much to say that "his vigilant care of the true interests of the soldier, his professional and personal advancement and the happiness of his daily life in the Service has never relaxed." But the high praise is well merited, and it must apparently be a help to Gen. Kelton in the latter's present candidacy for the office of Governor of the Soldier's Home. There is an animated competition for this coveted place, so that turning official attention to the devotion of Gen. Kelton to the interests of the enlisted men and his successful efforts for them, may prove of considerable service to him in this contest.

EX-CONFEDERATES will no longer be barred from appointment to positions in the Army and Navy should an amendment to a Senate pension bill, just adopted by the House, prevail. The bill in question amends the pension laws so as to remove the disability of those who having participated in the rebellion enlisted in the Army and became disabled. This bill, which was previously passed by the Senate, was passed by the House on June 28 with an amendment, providing that nothing in any act of Congress shall hereafter prevent any person from being commissioned in the Army or Navy by reason of having served in the Army or Navy of the Confederate States.

THE cavalry competitions of this year for the Departments of the East, Platte, and California will take place at the Bellevue Rifle Range, near Fort Omaha, instead of at Fort Robinson, Neb., as originally ordered. They will commence Aug. 15.

THE "Glorious Fourth" will be celebrated on Monday next with a fervor which seems to suffer no decrease as the years roll by. The development of patriotism in the rising generation is one of the cheering signs of the times.

MILITARY circles were somewhat startled early this week by despatches from Paris that Captain Henry D. Borup, Ord. Dept., U. S. A., Military Attaché with the U.S. Legation in France, had been accused by the French press of furnishing confidential information, received from the French authorities, to the German and Italian Governments, for a consideration. To those on this side of the Atlantic who know Captain Borup, the incident occasioned little anxiety, and his statement, in effect as follows, was received with perfect confidence: "I don't want exoneration, as I have done nothing calling for exoneration. I merely want equity before the law. I don't even know the man Granier, who accuses me. All that I have done has been absolutely within my legitimate duties as a military attaché of the United States Legation toward a friendly Power. It is absolutely false that I have communicated any information obtained by me to representatives of foreign governments." But the matter went before the French Chamber of Deputies, and in order that there might be no friction, our Minister to France telegraphed to Washington that Captain Borup had better be recalled. The authorities at Washington firmly believe in Captain Borup's entire innocence of the alleged charges, but, of course, his recall is best under the circumstances. The New York Herald well says that "the story should be received with distrust. Officers of the United States Army are trained in too rigid a school of honor to make it likely that one of them in Captain Borup's position should act the part of a mercenary spy. His emphatic denial is certainly worth more than is the anonymous accusation made against him."

Captain Borup is quoted as saying: "I have never done anything but what was my duty as a military attaché. All my letters, books, reports and other papers are open at any time to the War Office. I am prepared to telegraph to Washington and ask for my recall, and I would have done so already had it not appeared to me that my motives might be misconstrued, and I will now remain and face the music." Capt. Borup has been a zealous correspondent of the Bureau of Information of our War Department at Washington, which may have given rise to this misunderstanding, but we shall confidently expect that his honor will be found unstained, and that when the matter is sifted to the bottom, as it will be, he will be found to be perfectly guiltless.

In future Government work, in the delineation of topography, contour lines, and similar data, papier maché is destined to be extensively used in place of plaster of paris. It will be of interest to engineers to know that a large relief map of Pennsylvania, 14 ft. by 7, showing every elevation and declivity from Lake Erie to the Delaware is now being constructed of papier maché by the Geological Survey Bureau. Its great advantages are lightness and facility of transportation, both of which are lacking in plaster of paris representations. The horizontal scale is two miles to the inch, vertical not yet decided upon. The modelling will begin at the highest point of the Alleghenies, Somerset County, 2,800 ft. above sea level, whence it slopes to the lower levels.

For the second time in the history of the Subsistence Department a vacancy in the lower grade has been filled by the transfer of a captain from the line. The officer this time is Capt. A. L. Smith, 4th Cav., whose nomination vice Hay, deceased, was sent to the Senate June 29. The other instance was that of Capt. D. M. Scott. Judge Kerens, a strong friend of the President, was among those who endorsed Capt. Smith for the position.

SECRETARY TRACY completed consideration of the Court-martial case of Commander James D. Graham, who was tried at Richmond, Va., several months ago, and sentenced him to be dismissed the service. A recommendation for mercy on the part of the court, coupled with personal consideration for Commander Graham's family, induced the Secretary to recommend that the sentence be mitigated to seven years' suspension on half pay. At last accounts, the President had not acted on the papers, but in anticipation of the approval of Secretary Tracy's recommendation, the Department has made out the long list of promotions in the line which have been delayed in consequence of the uncertain status of this officer. From this list, which we publish elsewhere, it will be observed that Commanders Bridgman, McCormick, Barker, Cotton and Bartlett, have been promoted over the head of Commander Graham, who will probably never reach a higher grade. He can retire for forty years service before the suspension recommended by Secretary Tracy expires, and it is presumed by his friends that he will take advantage of that privilege, rather than run the chances of a promotion board with the existing Court-martial proceedings as a part of his record.

A VALUED correspondent sends us an interesting account, published in the Providence Journal, of the defences, or rather of the want of defences, in Narragansett Bay. It is open to the criticism which he makes of exposing a good deal to the knowledge of other nations; but we trust that some good modern guns and mortars will be ready for mounting there within the next twelve months, while the region is not destitute of submarine defences now.

THE assignment of the West Point graduates has been practically determined upon, but will probably not be announced until the early part of next week, owing to certain changes necessitated by unexpected casualties during the past few days.

THE Army Appropriation Bill, with the exception of a single item relating to Army transportation over land grant roads, has been agreed to in conference and by both houses of Congress. The following report by the conferees will explain in detail the action of the Conference Committee on the items of dispute which have hitherto been referred to briefly in the JOURNAL:

Amendments numbered 3, 5, 6, 10, 13, 14, 17, 24, 26, 28, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, are simple verbal amendments, or amendments in punctuation.

No. 4. Number 4 increases the amount appropriated for pay for general-service clerks $1,900, so that the amount shall correspond with the requirements under the law.

No. 7. No. 7 strikes out a new provision authorizing the Secretary of War to assign certain officers to duty as acting paymasters.

Nos. 8 and 9 change the reduction of the number of paymasters with the grade of major as made by the House from 10 to 5.

Nos. 11 and 12 should be considered together, as they provide that the paymasters' clerks shall be reduced, as the number of paymasters of the grade of major is reduced.

No. 15 simply inserts certain words heretofore used in the appropriation bill, providing that the expert accountant for the Inspector General's Department be appointed in case of vacancy by the Secretary of War.

No. 16 provides that officers temporarily absent on duty in the field shall not lose their right to quarters or commutation thereof at their permanent station while so temporarily absent, and that the accounting officers of the Treasury are authorized to credit disbursing officers of the Army with the amount of any such sums as may have been charged against them on account of payment of commutation of quarters of officers temporarily absent from their permanent stations.

No. 18 is the insertion of a provision in regard to officers detailed to obtain information from abroad, which was omitted from the House bill by inadvertence.

No. 19 is made necessary by the change of the bill as to paymasters' clerks and general-service clerks and messengers, making an increase of $6,100 above the amount appropriated by the House.

No. 20 provides that the pay of officers of the Army shall not be withheld except when their indebtedness to the Government is an acknowledged one or shown to be the judgment of a court or upon the order of the Secretary of War.

No. 21 is a proviso that post exchanges shall be permitted to use public buildings or public transportation when, in the opinion of the Quartermaster-General, not required for other purposes.

No. 22. The House appropriated $2,600,000 for Army transportation, which the Senate amended by providing for an appropriation of $2,850,000, but which was modified by agreement of the Conference Committee to $2,700,000.

No. 25 relates to the amount to be paid out for the services of civilians employed in the Quartermaster's Department. The House bill provided for the expenditure of $1,200,000 for that purpose; the Senate amendment provided for $1,150,000; the Conference Committee agreed upon $1,200,000. This is not an increase in expenditures, but simply a limitation as to the amount to be paid civilian employees.

No. 27 is a change of the limitation to be paid civilian employees of the Medical Department from $40,000 to $45,000, and does not change the amount appropriated.

Nos. 28 and 29 relate to the appropriation for the Medical Museum and library, for which the bill as it passed the House appropriated $7,000. In the Senate it was increased to $10,000, but from this amount the Senate receded.

No. 30. The House appropriated $5,000 for repairing and preserving ordnance and ordnance stores. This was increased in the Senate to $10,000, from which the Senate receded.

No. 31. The amount appropriated for the purchase and manufacture of ordnance stores by the House was $100,000, which the Senate increased to $120,000, and from which the Senate receded.

No. 32. The House appropriated $115,000 for infantry, cavalry and artillery equipments, which the Senate increased to $150,000. The conference committee has agreed upon $130,000.

No. 33. The bill as it passed the House appropriated $20,000 for firing morning and evening guns at military posts, which the Senate increased to $25,000, from which it has receded.

No. 34. This is a new provision inserted by the Senate for the purchase of machine guns, improved musket calibre, of American manufacture, $50,000. This item was overlooked in the original estimate. A similar amount has been appropriated each year for some years past, and was therefore agreed to.

No. 35. This merely transposes the amount appropriated from one place in the paragraph to a more appropriate place, and the usual limitation of the amount that may be applied to the payment of civilian clerks in the Ordnance Department.

Nos. 42 and 43 provide for the amount of contingent expenses at the headquarters of the several military departments, and that the same shall be allotted by the Secretary of War, increasing the amount from $2,500 to $3,000.

The following is the result of the conference in amounts:

Army Appropriation, 1892-93.

The committee on conference did not agree on the amendment numbered 23, wherein the Senate struck out the following:

"Provided further, That no money herein appropriated shall be used in the payment of the transportation of troops and supplies of the Army over any of the nonbonded lines owned, controlled or operated by the Union Pacific Railway Company, including the lines of the Oregon Shortline and Utah Northern Railway Company or by the Southern Pacific Company over lines embraced in its Pacific system."

THE report of Col. E. M. Heyl, Inspector General's Department, U. S. A., to the Inspector General of the Army, on the Michigan Military Academy at Orchard Lake, is highly complimentary to that institution. Among other things Col. Heyl in his report says: "The academic department is conducted on the West Point plan, and every encouragement is given the military feature of the institution. A military subject is of equal value with any other, and is allowed to be substituted in some courses for other studies. The inspection was very satisfactory—the cadets are the very 'pink' of neatness in appearance; the arms and accoutrements show great care and are kept in most excellent condition. The battalion shows to what a high state of proficiency cadets are capable of being trained by a competent instructor. To Capt. Chas. King, U. S. A., is due the credit, through his good judgment, management, tact and skill, of presenting the best drilled and instructed battalion of cadets I have ever seen. The advantage of the military feature in connection with the educational system of this academy cannot be overestimated. The young men are taught self-reliance, discipline and subordination to authority, which are all important either in the Army or in civil life. The physical training will also be an important factor in the future health and bearing of the young men of this institution."

WITH the detachment of P.A. Engineer Theodore F. Burgdorff from duty with the University of Tennessee, Lieutenant W. Braunerreuther, who is on duty at the Lindsley Institute, W. Va., is the only naval officer left on college duty. When his term expires this fall, this character of details will be discontinued entirely. There continues to be great demand from colleges for their services, but with the new vessels being added to the Navy and increased demands from all sources for officers, the Department finds it has no officers to spare for college duty. Great pressure is being brought to bear for the detail of additional officers for duty in connection with the World's Fair, but the Detail Office can hardly see its way clear to granting the requests. Several details of this character, however, will probably be made before the Fair opens.

REAR ADMIRAL GHERARDI was in Washington several days during the past week consulting with the officials regarding the summer cruise of and repairs to the vessels of his squadron. A cruise in Canadian waters covering six or eight weeks has been determined upon. The Philadelphia, Concord and Vesuvius will go up the St. Lawrence as far as Montreal. The Kearsarge meanwhile visiting Brunswick and St. Johns. Rear Admiral Gherardi expects to leave New York on this voyage not later than July 11.

COMMODORE F. M. RAMSAY is acting Secretary of the Navy in the absence of Secretary Tracy, who is now on board the Dolphin, en route to Woodstock, Ct., where he is to deliver an address on July 4, and Assistant Secretary Soley, who has gone to Boston.

THE Fortification bill is undergoing consideration by the Senate Appropriation Committee this week. A substantial increase over the amount recommended by the House may be looked for, though on account of the well known economical tendencies of the House, the Senate Committee may not be as liberal as they otherwise would be. Gen. Flagler appeared before the committee on Thursday. He urged an increase in the items for gun forgings and gun carriages.

THE appointment of Lieut. (junior grade) Omesso G. Dodge as professor of mathematics is an excellent one. Lieut. Dodge is an exceptionally bright young officer, who as an instructor at the Naval Academy has shown peculiar qualifications for the position to which he has been appointed. The promptness with which his nomination was confirmed shows that he has some good friends in the Senate who appreciate his worth.

If it is decided to send a vessel to participate in the Columbian celebration, to begin at Palos on Aug. 3, it is believed now that the Dolphin will be selected for the mission.

LIEUTENANT F. P. FREMONT, 3d U. S. Inf., will leave Bedloe's Island next week to spend July and August on leave.

MRS. W. C. DUNCAN and Dr. Donald MacLean, of Detroit, were married June 30 at the quarters of Lt. and Adj't. Geo. Russell Cecil, U. S. A., Davids Island, N. Y. Harbor.

CAPTAIN R. G. SHAW, 1st U. S. Art., broke up the regimental recruiting rendezvous at Allentown, Pa., on Thursday of this week, and will resume command of his battery at Fort Hamilton.

AFTER a long fight Lieut. E. S. Farrow, U. S. A. retired, has got judgment to compel the Holland Trust Co. to consent to a receiver for the Barnegat Park Co. The defendants surrendered to Lieut. Farrow all mortgages, stock, securities, vouchers and papers transferred to them by the agreement of Dec. 18, 1890.

P. A. ENGINEER ROBT. CRAWFORD, having been found disabled by the Naval retiring board, has been placed on the retired list.

LIEUTENANT J. D. J. KELLEY, U. S. N., and Mrs. Kelley are located for the season at Woodside-on-the-Sound, near Pelham Manor, N. Y.

LIEUTS. Raymond P. Rodgers, R. H. Ingersoll, A. A. Ackerman and Assistant Paymaster W. B. Wilcox have successfully passed their examinations for promotion since we last announced the proceedings of the examining boards.

THE appointment of Cadet Vogelgesang as Asst. Paymaster had been decided upon by the President at one time, but as it was found that the last of the graduates could be provided for through the retirement of Lieut. McIntosh, the necessary vacancy was made in this way, so that Cadet Vogelgesang will be compelled to accept a commission in the line, a civilian whose name is not yet known, having been selected for the Assistant Paymastership.

RECORD SHOOTING.

To the Editor of the Army and Navy Journal:

In a recent issue of your valuable paper "Captain of Infantry" seems to base his objections to record shooting on the ground that conscientious company commanders cannot compete with the "record makers." That may be so. Nevertheless, without the records of each company being more or less competitive in their general nature and classification, it would be impossible to keep up any interest in its performance among the officers and men sufficient to insure a high standard of marksmanship in our Army.

Competition is the life and energy of our country in every branch of its industries; and we lead the world. We can no more do without it in the Service than in trade, even though we suffer through "tricks of the trade," and cannot catch the record makers. To abolish it and its recording would be the death blow to efficiency in marksmanship.

Further, without the records, it would be impossible for any of our commanders to have any useful knowledge of the progress or state of marksmanship of the men in their commands.

However, I, too, have my "bone to pick" with the present system. Any system that takes two years to classify a recruit as a shot is of little use for practical military purposes in an emergency. Every recruit should know how to shoot and be classified within three months after enlistment, and pre-rotated as an available shot for duty with the organization to which he belongs. What good is a soldier without a gun? What good is the gun if the soldier can't shoot? What does Uncle Sam want to keep a soldier a year and a half for that can't shoot?

I would suggest that the target instruction for recruits be conducted in each organization throughout the year, or at least a sufficient amount of it at the recruiting rendezvous and at garrisons to insure the recruit being made a shot of some kind inside of a reasonable number of days after enlistment.

The "record breakers" do good even if they cannot be reached. By them a high standard is set which all companies strain their utmost to reach as nearly as they possibly can by all fair means within their power.

Take away the standard of number one, the classification of the lowest, and do you think there would be much nerve force expended by the captains, or very much strain put on the different organizations, to obtain the maximum result from every shot fired, and consequently the largest number of capable shots that their commands will produce?

Ten years on the range tells me "No."

RECENT DEATHS.

BREVET LIEUTENANT-COLONEL FREDERICK EUGENE TROTTER, major, 24th U. S. Infantry, was stricken with paralysis at 10 A. M., June 29, and died at 5 P. M. the same day. At the time of his death he was on duty at Camp Murray, Tacoma, Washington, with the Washington National Guard. Maj. Trotter was born in Brooklyn and was the son of Jonathan Trotter, at one time Mayor of that city. He was educated at Trinity College, at Hartford, Conn., and after graduation he joined the 7th Regiment in April, 1861. In December of that year he was appointed captain of the 102d New York Volunteers, was promoted major in July, 1862, mustered out in March, 1863, and the following June was appointed captain of the Veteran Reserve Corps. He was promoted major in October, 1863; promoted lieutenant-colonel in March, 1864, and was mustered out in October, 1866. He had in the meantime been appointed captain of the 45th U. S. Infantry and major of the 44th U. S. Infantry, but the latter appointment was cancelled by the President Dec. 8, 1866, and he reverted to his captaincy in the 45th Infantry. He was transferred to the 14th U. S. Infantry in 1869, and served with that regiment until March 23, 1892, when he was promoted major of the 24th U. S. Infantry. The deceased officer had a splendid war record, and for his gallant and meritorious services received the brevets of major and lieutenant-colonel in the Regular Army and of colonel and brigadier-general of volunteers. He leaves a widow and five children. He was born April 25, 1838.

CAPTAIN CHARLES HAY, Commissary of Subsistence, U. S. A., a meritorious officer of thirty years' service, died at Denver, Colo., of pneumonia, June 28. Capt. Hay served from 1861 to July, 1864, in an Ohio regiment, was appointed captain of the 5th U. S. Veteran Infantry in February, 1865, and was mustered out in May, 1866. In 1867 he was appointed 2d Lieutenant of the 36th U. S. Infantry, was afterwards assigned to the 23d U. S. Infantry, promoted 1st Lieutenant in 1871, and in December, 1888, was appointed captain and commissary of subsistence, U. S. A. He had been stationed at Denver for some years past. He had an excellent war record.

LIEUTENANT FRANK L. SMITH, U. S. Revenue Marine, died at New Bedford, Mass., June 21.

MRS. SARAH ECKFELDT, widow of an officer of the War of 1812, died June 23, at Germantown, aged 105 years and six months.

MR. FRANKLIN BUCHANAN DAVIDSON, who died at Cambridge, Mass., June 23, was a son of Hunter Davidson, formerly 1st Lieutenant, U. S. Navy, who left the Service in April, 1861.

MRS. SOPHIE TALBOT GWINN, widow of Major David Gwynne, paymaster, U. S. Army, died June 15, at St. Louis, in the 96th year of her age. Major Gwynne served with great distinction in the War of 1812, resigned in 1830, and died in 1849.

LIEUTENANT JULIUS S. BOHRER, U. S. N., retired, who died at Linden, Md., June 21, joined the Navy as a midshipman in 1830, attained the grade of master in 1854, and was retired in 1858. In 1853 his title was changed to Lieutenant, junior grade. He leaves two daughters.

MR. PERCY LIVINGSTON DRAYTON, who died at Washington, D. C., June 24, joined the Naval Academy in 1874, and on June 26, 1884, had risen to the rank of ensign. He resigned from the Navy in 1886. He was the only son of Mr. Wm. Drayton, of Philadelphia, and a nephew of Capt. Percival Drayton, U. S. N., who died in 1865. After his resignation he travelled extensively through Europe. He was 35 years of age, a man of splendid physique, of great personal beauty and a thorough sportsman. He was a member of the Union, Knickerbocker, Racquet and Tuxedo Clubs, and a great favorite in society.

We regret to note the death at Reading, Pa., June 19, of the Rev. C. F. McCauley, D. D., father of Capt. C. A. H. McCauley, Asst-lant: Quartermaster, U. S. Army. The Reformed Church Record, of Reading, referring to the death of Dr. McCauley, says: "Dr. McCauley enjoyed the honor of being the eldest minister in Reading, both in point of age and service. He was born Jan. 5, 1816, at Ringgold's Manor, ten miles south of Hagerstown, Md. He was an able preacher, a faithful pastor, and a most humble servant of Christ. One of the most prominent and beautiful traits in his character was his unselfishness. During Dr. McCauley's pastorate of 36 years he confirmed 896 persons, received by certificate 455, baptized 1,160, buried 662, wedded 338 couples." The Rev. Dr. C. S. Gerard, who officiated at the funeral, paid a beautiful tribute to the virtues of the deceased, in the course of which he said: "His companionship was a treasure to us all. No one ever welcomed his brethren more cordially to his house and heart. Genuine hospitality and brotherly kindness were conspicuous traits of his character. A truer and kinder heart than his never beat in a human breast." Floral tributes from many churches and Sunday schools were sent as tokens of affection for the deceased. The Reading Daily Times says in concluding a fitting eulogy of the deceased: "The announcement of the sad intelligence of his death cast a profound gloom over the entire city, and especially in the Reformed churches, in which nearly all the pastors referred to him in terms of eulogy."

A BILL to give Rear Admiral John H. Russell the highest pay of his grade in the retired list has been reported favorably by the Senate Naval Committee.

ORDNANCE NOTES.

COMMODORE FOLGER spent the day at the Bethlehem Iron Works on June 30, inspecting work in progress on the side armor for the battleships Massachusetts and Indiana.

The cartridges of Germany, Austria and Belgium have a groove at the end instead of an enlargement at the base, the advantage of which is that the cartridge is packed more easily.

The ordnance outfit of the Monterey, which is now practically ready for shipment to San Francisco, comprises two 12-in. B. L. R., two 10-in. B. L. R., six 6-pdr., four 1-pdr., two machine guns, 100 rifles (small arms), 80 revolvers, and mounts and ammunition for all the guns.

E. M. S.—You can enlist as a landsman at rate of $16 per month. Enlistments are for a period of three years. Applicants must appear at the recruiting rendezvous which are located at New York, San Francisco, Norfolk and Boston.

H. R. G.—You seem to be under the impression that there is a corps of Army schoolmasters, especially enlisted as such. There is not, so far. But you can enlist as a soldier, and if qualified for duty as schoolmaster, will have no difficulty in securing a detail.

C. F. D. asks if the May issue of the Journal of the Society of Naval Engineers can be gotten by any one not connected with the naval service? Ans.—Yes; address American Society of Naval Engineers, Navy Department, Washington, D. C. Subscription price is $5 per year.

Ans.—Enlisted men who are serving in their 2d, 2d, etc., enlistment, but who are not deriving pecuniary benefit from former enlistment, are entitled to purchase their discharge under Clause I, General Orders No 81, A. G. O., 1893.

B. L.—U. S. troops being educated to pitch tents may be required on extraordinary occasions to pitch tents for other persons on Government duty besides commissioned officers and enlisted men. Many civilians do not know how to pitch a tent, and he would be a poor soldier who would stand by and see a civilian go without a cover when he could easily help him to erect one.

Ex naval apprentice asks: Under the Act of 1890 for "relief of sufferers by wreck at Apia, S. I.," or any other Act, can I recover a year's pay, having recovered $47.85 under Act of 1890 over a year ago? Ans.—If the claim for $47.85 was made on the blank issued under the Act of February, 1890, no further amount can be recovered. If on an old blank the difference between $47.85 and a year's pay can be recovered.

G. W. B.—Further supplementing our answers of June 4 and June 18, we would say that A. B. Montgomery, formerly 1st Lieutenant, 4th U. S. Art., is living and residing at Rome, Georgia. He was not stationed at Fort Laramie in 1858, but at Fort Kearney, in the Valley of the Platte, at that time Nebraska Territory. The two post commanders at Fort Kearney while Lieut. Montgomery was there were Bvt. Col. Chas. A. May, 2d Dragoons, and Major W. W. Morris, 4th Art., both of whom are dead.

A. asks: 1. What is the boundary line of the 13th Congressional District of N. Y. City and the name of the Congressman? Ans.—The old lines are 19th and 23d Assembly Districts of N. Y., and that part of the 23d District bounded on the north by the south side of 91st st., south by the north side of 86th st., west by east side of 5th ave., and east by East River. Asbel F. Fitch is the Congressman.

2. Will the new Congressional districts be considered at the next election? Ans.—Yes.

J. J. L.—In our answer of last week, in referring to "Randolph's and Langdon's batteries," our minds went back to the days of aids lang syne. These distinguished officers are no longer battery commanders, Langdon being colonel of the 1st and Randolph major of the 3d, both holding important commands. In the Regular Army there are now ten light batteries, all of a high standard of excellence, and commanded by the veteran artillerists Roden, Woodruff, Kirkle, Cushing, Brinckie, Lancaster, Dilloban, Burbank, Grimes and Capron.

D. C. asks: Can a soldier 35 years of age re-enlist in any other company or regiment except the one he is now serving in, or what restrictions are there as regards the same in relation to age? Ans.—The present regulation is as follows: Soldiers discharged as privates upon expiration of term of service and failing to re-enlist within one month will not be again enlisted after they have passed the age of 35 years, unless for some good reason in the interest of the public service, and then only for their former commands upon special authority from the Adjutant General's Office. Head carefully G. O. 96, of 1891, from the A. G. O.

Ajax Trumpeter.—A. R. 968, of 1888, says that boys of 12 years of age and upward may be enlisted for the purpose of being instructed on the fife, bugle and drum and other military instruments. But as recruits under 18 years of age and under size must be discharged, if they are not capable of learning music, care should be taken to enlist those only who have a natural talent for music, etc. A. R. 782, of 1881, says: Minors under 18 years will not be enlisted except for musicians, or to learn music, etc. Cir. 10, of 1883, says: Persons over 18 years of age will not be enlisted as "field musicians," but may be enlisted as soldiers, and if found capable, detailed to perform the duties of a field musician, and returned to the ranks when desired. Boys between the ages of 18 and 18 years only can be enlisted as field "musicians," and when so enlisted can not be transferred to the ranks except with their consent.

THE STATE TROOPS.

NEW YORK STATE CAMP OF INSTRUCTION.

PEEKSKILL, June 30.

SIXTY-NINTH REGIMENT.

UNDER the superintendence of Lieut. Col. Moran, the now 1st, late the 2d battalion, the latter part of the week became a totally different organization. The attendance for drill was greatly improved, and in the morning drills of Thursday the company officers were kept on the jump, there was little talking in ranks and, we are glad to say, no profanity. The men acknowledged the master and acted accordingly. The companies of the battalion were hardly recognizable, and instead of the slipshod work of the three previous days, the duty had become clean and systematic. The improvement, though gradual, was plainly perceptible, and the State inspector was satisfied with the progress. Maj. Duffy's battalion was well in hand and having gone through the gamut were ready for general work under the new Drill Regulation. Thanks to the untiring work of the major this battalion was now in good shape and the promise that the whole command would leave camp in a greatly improved state was assured. The midday drills were the initiation of the "extended order," and under the guidance of Col. Phisterer and Maj. Stackpole were productive of most beneficial results. A steady improvement could be observed, and though there was plenty and just cause for adverse criticism, the faults must be laid at the doors of the company officers.

Friday, the last working day of the regiment's tour, was truly its most successful one. All went well, from reveille to taps, and though the troopers in the matter of hospitality to the men of the regiment were lavish in the extreme, to the credit of both organizations be it said that not a single rule of the camp was violated. All was fun and jollity from retreat to tattoo, but at taps the men retired to quarters and neither sound nor light were in the company streets. The excellent discipline of the rank and file of the regiment was maintained.

Notwithstanding the rain the companies were out for the morning drill on Saturday, and the skirmish drill by company was closely inspected by the battalion commanders. After breakfast the troops were paid off by Col. Phisterer and the week's work was completed.

It would be a fallacy to state that this first week of the New York State Camp, 1892, was a success, but the fault was not that of the State officials, the battalion commanders, or the rank and file of the regiment. The fault is mainly that of the lack of interest and carelessness of the company commanders, and if Col. Cavanagh will not call for it, the State officials in charge of the camp who have witnessed the exhibition of ignorance displayed day by day should demand a reorganization of this command. It is well and honorable to be a veteran, but when the veteran loses his interest and is too old or too careless to keep up with the practical work of the day, then the days of his usefulness have passed and he should retire from active work and let younger men have the sway.

The average attendance of the regiment during the week was 32 officers, 562 enlisted men, a percentage of 75.89.

TROOP A, FIRST BRIGADE.

The only disappointment of the week to Capt. Roe's troopers was the change in the programme, which prevented the visit of the West Point cadets on Thursday, and even that should be considered a blessing, for the violent storm of the afternoon would have prevented an exhibition or drill of the troop. The games of the troop were, however, a most pronounced success, and were carried out to the very letter. They were completed before the storm. After the festivities of Friday night, the last night in camp, "Boots and Saddles" met with a hearty response on Saturday morning, not a man being absent or late. The morning drill was, as usual, completed in good shape, and after breakfast the command was ordered to prepare for their departure. At 10.30 A. M. the troop was assembled, and marching through the open ranks of the regiment, passed the guard tent, and amid the cheers and God-speeds of the warm-hearted Irishmen, took up the route for home. The bivouac of the night was, as on the march to camp, at the residence of Capt. Gould, and shortly after noon on Sunday the troop reached its army and was dismissed.

The average attendance of the week was 4 officers, 76 enlisted men—percentage, 78.48.

NINTH REGIMENT.

With 80 officers and 419 enlisted men the 9th Regiment, under command of Colonel Seward, left their armory, West 26th street, on Saturday, June 25, for a week's tour at the camp. All went as merry as a marriage bell, until when nearly opposite Mount St. Vincent a damper was thrown on the command through the unfortunate accident by which Corp. Finck, of Co. H, lost his life. It is not in our province to discuss the merits or demerits of this terrible accident, and who is to blame must be determined by a judicial investigation. The regiment entered camp in splendid shape, and were saluted by the 60th, who were aligned on the road opposite the guard tents. After dismissal, it took but little time for the men to find their quarters, but many of the squads were sorely disappointed, for in many of the companies of the retiring regiment the tents were left in anything but a cleanly condition. However, the men felt too sad at the loss of their comrade to think much of the lapses of the 60th, and soon everything was in apple-pie order. After supper the first of the week's evening "parades" was held and from start to close proved that the 9th were here for business. The command was divided into two battalions, Major Japha having the 1st, and Capt. Lorigan, Co. A, the 2d. The ceremony as a whole was conducted, the line, with the addition of the 1st Provisional Battalion, extending from the tent of the commissary general of ordnance to the Point of Rocks, with the left of the provisional battalion fairly climbing the hill. The guard mount of Sunday was also a fairly well executed ceremony, and though the city soldiers had to vie with their country cousins, they had no reason to feel ashamed of their share of the work. The usual religious services were held on the bivouac in the forenoon, Rev. Dr. Maynard preaching the sermon. The parade of the evening was again satisfactory.

BY THE 60TH NEW YORK STATE GUARD.

With Monday morning the real work of the week commenced, and the company drills were a revelation to officers and men. Col. Phisterer, the inspector of drills, had laid out a programme and insisted that it should be lived up to. There was a skirmish drill by squads in which the corporals were given sole charge under the supervision of the company officers. It was to a certain extent a "street" drill, the signals prescribed in the new Drill Regulations being used instead of the word of command. To the credit of the corporals it is said that the squads were held well in hand, and under the supervision of the State and U. S. officers at the camp a most satisfactory rendering of the new tactics was exhibited.

It was clearly shown that even with the very poor armory accommodations of the regiment this most important part of the instruction of the men had not been overlooked during the past winter's drill session. Another thing, too, to the credit of the regiment—there was little or no shirking; the companies turned out in full force, while the attention and steadiness in ranks was all that could be desired. We do not mean to state that these drills were anything like perfection, but it proved that a foundation had been laid which must necessarily redound to the credit of the regiment before the close of the week's tour. The guard mount of Monday could hardly be called a good one, for there was a carelessness displayed that was unaccountable. The steadiness was poor and the march past unsatisfactory. The mid-day drill was as on the previous week, a scheduled list being given to each battalion commander, with directions that it be carried out to the letter, and these directions were complied with, though both the battalion commanders started in with fear and trembling. The first drill was devoted to the simpler movements of the school of the battalion, the marching by the flank, advance and retreat in line, the fronts into line, and a number of close column formations, executed from the halt and on the march, with a few changes of front. Officers and men were fairly well acquainted with the movements of this drill, and but few hitches occurred in either battalion, and these were promptly rectified and corrected by the drill inspectors. The evening parade was a success. As a total this first of the working days of the week's tour augured well for the command, and great expectations as to the outcome of the week were indulged in.

The morning drills of Tuesday were progressive, the squads being increased to sections with the sergeants in command. These drills were hardly as satisfactory as those of the first day; the sergeants were timid and apparently unused to giving commands. The drills dragged, and but for the persistent efforts of the drill inspectors would surely have been failures. As it turned out, after the stage fright had worn off, the sergeants took hold and the drills proved to be most instructive to all concerned. The mid-day drill was a further advancement into the intricacies of the new drill regulations. Thirty-two movements were again scheduled for the work of the day, close column formations, fronts into line from company and columns of fours, close and extend intervals, changes of front, and changes of direction by the flank, etc. In these the company officers were frequently at fault, necessitating frequent halts for instruction and explanation. The first battalion was extremely ragged, the company commanders being frequently at sea as to what to do and how to do it. Very often the commands were misunderstood, with a consequent confusion and frequent inversions of companies, and though it must be said that considerable progress was made, it was a labor for officers and men. The second battalion was more fortunate; its ranks were more solid, both battalions being equalized into four commands of sixteen files, and even though the captain commanding the battalion was extremely nervous, especially under the tutelage of the U. S. Army officers, who were inspecting and instructing during the drill, everything worked smoothly to a certain extent. There were few hitches, and Capt. Lorigan having got over his nervousness, carried out the programme, and had nearly half an hour to spare before "recall." This he utilized in a rapid repetition of the more difficult movements of the scheduled list, which brought to the front the ability of his company commanders and satisfied the drill inspectors that the battalion was in competent hands. The evening's parade, but for the excess of distance between the companies of the first battalion, which forced the left of the third battalion way up on the point of rocks, would have been most satisfactory. Lieut.-Col. Rand took the parade; the manual and steadiness, especially in the third battalion, was most commendable; the separate companies were excellent, while the dismissal by echelon in each battalion was one of the great features of the ceremony.

Wednesday being specially devoted to movements by platoon, the evening "parade" was made to conform to the schedule, and the three battalions were formed for the ceremony in column of platoons. It was a novel formation, and but for the failure of the 1st battalion to take proper distance between companies, which Col. Phisterer promptly rectified, the formation would have been one of the best of the week. Col. Seward tendered this parade to Capt. Yates of the provisional battalion, but through a want of company officers to command the platoons the captain was forced to decline the compliment. The "parade" was carried through in excellent shape, and was a revelation to the members of the Tactical Board, U. S. A., and officers of the N. G. in camp. The "march off" was in the old fashioned review form, the platoons forming into company and circling the field under command of the 1st sergeants. This dismissal would have been most satisfactory but for the fact that in the march down the field the point of direction was badly taken, the band obliquing to the left while the guide of the first company obliqued to the right, so that when the command was opposite Col. Rand and the other officers, there was an open space of nearly nine paces between the band and leading company. The band followed instructions and marched to the bluff before changing direction, while the sergeant of the first company made his change at least 20 paces in rear of the turning point of the band. The blunder of the 1st sergeant of the first company spoiled this otherwise handsome "march off." He should have followed in the track of the band and field music.

THE FIRST PROVISIONAL BATTALION.

The first of the provisional battalions to occupy the State Camp of 1892 was composed of the 7th Sep. Co., Cohoes, Capt. Collins, 3 officers and 57 men; 22d Sep. Co., Saratoga Springs, Capt. Lester, 2 officers, 56 enlisted men; 23d Sep. Co., Hudson, Capt. Waterman, 2 officers, 54 enlisted men; 25th Sep. Co., Schenectady, Capt. Yates, 4 officers, 69 enlisted men, and the 42d Sep. Co., Niagara Falls, Capt. Butler, 3 officers, 59 enlisted men, a total of 14 officers and 295 enlisted men—309—under command of Capt. Yates. As all but one of these companies had made several tours to the State Camp there was little time wasted in getting quarters shipshape and the battalion was prompt at the formation for the first evening's parade. It has been an oft told tale that the separate companies as a rule outrank in drill, discipline and physique the companies of the city regiments, and in the case of the 1st Battalion the rule holds good, for a finer looking or better behaved body of men would be hard to find. Their officers, too, were enthusiasts, always seeking the latest points of information regarding the new Drill Regulations and promptly imparting this information to their men. To this must be attributed the great success of this battalion during the week. Captain, or rather as his officers choose to call him, "Major" Yates, worked hard, and he is said to be the credit of the "1st Provisional" of 1892, his work was appreciated and furthered.

The work of the battalion opened on Monday with the drill by squad, and here was shown the superiority of the separate company non-coms. as against those of the regiment. The corporals knew their business; the men were well aware of this fact, and though but few words were said or commands given during this first drill, the work of the several companies was as though they had been on the ground for months. Armory tutelages will tell, and the winter's work of these companies was now showing to their great advantage. The mid-day drill, too, was a success to such an extent that one of the officers of the 9th remarked to the JOURNAL, "Where do these hayseeds get their points?" Capt. Yates proved to be a good battalion commander, his voice was clear and distinct, and though he is not the biggest man in the camp, the old adage of "good goods in small parcels" holds well in his case. The movements, steadiness and manual of the battalion at the evening parade were all that could be desired.

THE N. R. A. AND CREAMMOOR.

THERE will be no fall meeting of the National Rifle Association held at Creedmoor this year. In place of this, the N. R. A. will transfer its competitions for the Hilton, Interstate, and probably the Governor's and President's matches, to the Sea Girt (N. J.) range, where the contests will be held under the auspices of the New Jersey Rifle Association.

On June 23 Gen. B. M. Whitlock, Gen. Insp. of Rifle Practice, New York, wrote to Gen. G. W. Wingate, president of the N. R. A., asking him "what date in September next the N. R. A. proposed to hold its fall meeting at Creedmoor, L. I., in order that he could fix a date for the State and brigade matches." Gen. Wingate in replying to Gen. Whitlock on June 24 said: "I have to state that the dates assigned by you for the practice of the National Guard at Creedmoor have left no time unoccupied which could be used by the N. R. A. for its monthly or annual meeting; it has therefore been decided not to hold any annual meeting at Creedmoor during the present year. The N. R. A. will transfer such meeting to the State of New Jersey, where its exertions in establishing rifle practice seems to have earned for it a warmer regard than on the range it created."

Twelfth New York.—Colonel H. Dowd.

THE rifle competition for the handsome challenge trophy presented by ex-Col. J. H. Jones, was held at the armory range last week and resulted in a substantial victory for the team from Co. B, Capt. C. S. Burns, who were 70 points ahead of their nearest competitor. The match was open to teams of 10 men, seven shots per man, off hand and prone. The team from Co. K, Capt. J. F. Boylan, won second place, and caused no little surprise by their prowess. The aggregate score of each competing team in order of merit was as follows:

| | 200 Yards. | 500 Yards. | Aggregate |
|-------------------------|------------|------------|-----------|
| Co. B. | 271 | 298 | 569 |
| Co. K. | 243 | 251 | 494 |
| Co. E. | 219 | 274 | 493 |
| F. S. and N. C. S. | 239 | 251 | 490 |
| Co. D. | 244 | 225 | 479 |
| Co. I. | 232 | 225 | 457 |
| Co. F. | 211 | 234 | 445 |
| Co. C. | 219 | 239 | 438 |
| Co. H. | 171 | 182 | 353 |
| Co. G. | 176 | 139 | 315 |

Co. A failed to put in a team. All the team trophies offered in the regiment can now be seen in the room of Co. B, the winner, which has yet shown no signs of losing its record as the "Shooting Company."

Second Battery.—Captain D. Wilson.

THE battery has accepted an invitation to be present at Patterson, N. J., on July 4 and 5, to take part in the military exercises in connection with the Centennial celebration. The battery, mounted, will leave the armory on the morning of the 4th, returning on the evening of the 5th.

The muster rolls of the battery just returned bear the following endorsement of the Inspector-General: "Inspected and mustered at Van Cortlandt Park, to whom place the battery had marched out from its armory and been in camp for two days previous. Mounted drill in various evolutions of the battery very creditable. Drivers during all movements and under fire had perfect control of their horses. This work was practical demonstration of the fact that a National Guard battery can quickly be adapted to mounted service. Percentage present, 75.5%."

CONNECTICUT.

MILITARY training seems to have taken a strong hold at Yale University. A year ago, after the department in the Sheffield Scientific School had been established, some of the academic seniors formed a company by themselves and elected Capt. Brown, one of their own number. They drilled twice a week from five until six at the 2d Regiment armory, and there was an average attendance of about 65 out of a membership of about 100, the whole class numbering about 180. Lieut. W. H. C. Bowen, 5th Inf., recruiting officer, lent his aid, and wonderful progress was made. Such was the interest aroused that President Dwight and the Faculty will give the plan their hearty encouragement another year and the officers will probably be appointed by the dean of the class.

The new staff of Brig. Gen. Haven is composed as follows: Charles Cheney, of South Manchester, ex-lieutenant Co. G, 1st Regt., to be brigade inspector, with rank of major; Major Wm. F. Bidwell, 3d Regt., of Killingly, to be brigade quartermaster, with rank of major; 1st Lieut.

Frederick Farnsworth, paymaster, 3d Regt., of New London, to be brigade commissary, with rank of major; Geo. E. Albee, ex-captain Co. D, 2d Regt., of New Haven, to be brigade inspector of rifle practice, with rank of major; William W. Starr, Jr., ex-signaller, of Bridgeport, to be brigade engineer and signal officer, with the rank of major; Major Leonard B. Almy, surgeon, 3d Regt., of Norwalk, to be medical director, with rank of lieutenant-colonel; Henry S. Terrell, ex-captain Co. I, 4th Regt., of West Winona, to be aide-de-camp, with rank of captain; 1st Lieut. Howard A. Giddings, commanding Signal Corps, 1st Regt., of Hartford, to be aide-de-camp, with rank of captain.

The New Haven battalion of the 2d Regiment held a battalion drill and review at their armory the night of June 22. Gen. Haven reviewed them in citizens' clothes.

Augustus T. Tyler, of New London, West Point graduate and an ex-Army officer, has been elected colonel of the 2d, vice Haven promoted. Capt. J. H. Morrison, Co. E, Willimantic, succeeds Major Bidwell, appointed on the brigade staff. Lieut.-Col. H. B. Smith talks of resigning.

Quartermaster James K. Croft, South Norwalk, has been appointed adjutant of the 4th Regiment, vice Burpee, appointed captain of Co. K.

New Haven citizens have presented a handsome new uniform and equipments to Major Callahan of the 2d.

1st Lieut. F. W. Humphrey succeeds Capt. Bingham in command of Co. D, 1st Regt., New Britain.

2d Lieut. S. M. Leonard becomes 1st lieutenant and 1st Sergt. L. V. Shutz becomes 1st lieutenant.

S. C. Parker and F. H. Masterson are appointed 1st and 2d lieutenants, respectively, of Co. K, 4th Regt., Bridgeport.

Sergt. A. B. Jenkins succeeds H. A. Giddings as lieutenant of the 1st Regiment Signal Corps, Hartford.

F. C. Billings, Hartford, has been appointed paymaster on the staff of the 1st Regiment.

The brigade will assemble at the State Military Rendezvous, Niantic, Conn., Saturday, Aug. 13, not later than 3 o'clock P. M., for an eight days' tour of duty and instruction under the immediate orders of the brigade commander, Brig. Gen. Geo. Haven. The Q. M. General will arrange the camp ground and pitch the tents, including quarters for the Commander-in-Chief and his staff.

VERMONT.

The annual encampment of the Vermont National Guard will be held at Montpelier, Vt., from Tuesday, Aug. 23, to Saturday, Aug. 27, inclusive. Permission is also given for one additional day, on Monday, Aug. 22, provided the men volunteer to serve without pay subject to the usual restrictions as to discipline. Brig.-Gen. Wm. L. Greenleaf is assigned to duty at said camp as post commander. By direction of the Secretary of War, Capt. Herbert S. Foster, 20th U. S. Inf., has been detailed to inspect the troops during the encampment, and make report to the War Department of the condition and efficiency of the command.

OHIO.

The 1st Regt., Col. E. C. Brush, will go into camp from Aug. 11 to 15 inclusive. The camp ground selected is the one recently presented to the State. It is very desirable in every respect and will afford the best of facilities for target practice and mounted drill. So far as is known the 1st Artillery will be the only regiment to camp there this summer, and it will christen the grounds.

Col. Brush makes the following announcement: "The camp will be for six days, but it is hoped that all will be willing to remain seven or eight days. No pay is allowed for more than six days, but subsistence can be furnished for the extra time. Battery commanders are directed to get rid of unavailable men and carry none on their rolls who cannot be depended upon for drill and camp. Application has been made to the Honorable Secretary of War for the detail of Lieut. Geo. Owen Squier, 3d U. S. Art."

"The manual of guard duty is being revised. Officers and men are advised not to purchase any manual until the authorized revised edition is published. The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL of June 25 publishes the revision up to June 15. This copy can be had by sending 15 cents to the JOURNAL, 98-101 Nassau St., New York."

A section from Battery B, 1st Ohio Art., won the first prize for machine gun drill at the recent contests at Omaha, Nebraska.

Ohio gets a prize at Omaha, Neb., and Co. C, 2d Inf., Capt. E. M. Bell, commanding, does the work. They arrived home from Omaha on June 21. The citizens of Lima, procuring the 2d Regiment band, and with the police in uniform, Lima Rep. Club in uniform, Canton Orient No. 24 Patriarchal Legion, full dress uniform, ex-members of Co. C, speakers in carriage and not less than 5,000 citizens met the boys at the depot, which was a great surprise to them. The route from the depot to the armory was finely illuminated and there was quite a display of fireworks.

The citizens of Lima feel proud of Co. C, and it is well they should. The second prize, $750, and a beautiful sword for their captain, puts the company on their mettle.

WISCONSIN.

THE several organizations of the Wisconsin National Guard will assemble for instruction at the Wisconsin Military Reservation, Camp Douglas, Juneau County, Wis., as follows, namely: 2d Inf., 1st Light Batt., July 11 to 16 inclusive; 2d Inf., July 18 to 23 inclusive; 1st Inf., Aug. 1 to 6 inclusive; 2d Inf., Aug. 8 to 15 inclusive.

The date and place of encampment of the Light Horse Squadron will be announced later. Capt. H. W. Ellis, 1st Light Batt., will report with his command to Lt.-Col. Chas. King, comdr. 4th Inf., for orders in reference to matters pertaining to camp. The Q. M. General's department will cause the camp grounds to be properly prepared for the several commands, and no advance details will be made except two company cooks and one Q. M. Sergeant from each company. The commanding officer of each organization will muster his command during the week of camp duty. The Wisconsin National Guard will be inspected during its encampment by an officer of the Regular Army.

MINNESOTA.

PART of the National Guard of Minnesota is having some practical experience in actual service. There has been serious trouble at the iron mines at Tower, with the striking miners, composed almost entirely of Poles and Finns, and the authorities have found it necessary to call upon the Governor for the assistance of the National Guard. Cos. A. of Duluth, and G and H, of West Duluth, under Capt. Tear, Williamson and Brown, have been taken by special train to the scene of the disturbance. Lieut.-Col. Shandrew has taken command. It is hoped that the matter can be adjusted without any bloodshed.

Col. Fred P. Wright, 3d Inf., has the honor of being the first Republican Mayor of St. Paul inaugurated in the last 20 years. He will undoubtedly fulfill all the expectations of his friends, who worked so effectively to elect him.

The field officers and company commanders of the 3d Infantry recently held a meeting at regimental headquarters in St. Paul to consider the interests of the regiment. Among the matters determined upon was the organization of a Signal Corps, to consist of one lieutenant, three non-commissioned officers and 24 privates.

The 3d Infantry have ordered a full outfit of dress uniforms for the regiment, to be delivered about Aug. 1. They are to be the U. S. Regular pattern.

There have been many calls upon the mounted battalion for details, with guns, to attend G. A. R. reunions and 4th of July celebrations during the coming summer. The Governor has ordered such details sent to Winona and Fairmount and there will undoubtedly be other excursions for the battery boys.

Major W. G. Bronson, of the 1st Infantry, is holding weekly schools for the officers of the 2d battalion of the 1st, and expects to have Cos. C, D, E, H and K out for battalion drill in the near future.

Brigade headquarters make the following report of the strength of the National Guard: 1st Inf., 715; 2d Inf., 597; 3d Inf., 556, and mounted battalion, 125. The percentage of attendance to drills for the last six months is as follows: 1st Inf., 56%; 2d Inf., 55%; 3d Inf., 59%; mounted battalion, 62%. Average attendance for the brigade, 68%. The total strength of the brigade is 1,890 officers and men.

Capt. Frost, Co. C, 2d Inf., Winona, has issued an invitation to the companies of the 2d to come to Winona to take part in the celebration of the coming Fourth of July. He promises to provide quarters and subsistence. Capt. Steinbauer, Co. A, 2d, New Ulm, has also issued an invitation to the companies of the 2d to participate in a celebration at New Ulm on the Fourth, and offers, in addition of quarters and subsistence, transportation.

Adjt. J. J. Eckstein, of the 3d Infantry, has tendered his resignation. He has long been a faithful officer of the 3d, but finds that pressing personal business requires him to relinquish his commission. His place can not be filled with one more worthy or capable, and the Guardsmen are sorry to see him leave the service.

(Correspondence of the Army and Navy Journal.)

ARKANSAS.

ARKANSAS is especially proud of her Volunteer State Guard, and more especially so on their return from the Interstate Drill at Omaha, Neb. Your readers, of course, know that our State completely ignores the existence of such a body, the Legislature refusing to appropriate a dollar for their maintenance. At their own individual expense, aided by a few patriotic citizens, for several years past they have been in every competitive drill with honor to themselves and to the State which they represent. The gallant McCarthy's return to us with the third prize, the third ribbon on their flag, while the Fletcher's have "a never givup the skin determination" expressed on every face. All honor to Private Durand Whipple of the McCarthy Guards. He is one of Little Rock's boys, born here Nov. 18, 1871, educated in our public schools, a graduate of our Little Rock University, a law student in his father's office; who never knew, or to the writer's knowledge, saw a military school, returns to us wearing the best medal in the service, that of the best drilled man in the race. We are proud of him, and will any one show us why we should not be?

OLD GUARD.

The various divisions have visited the monitor Pawnee during the week, and had Comdr. Soley describe the working of the guns and machinery to them.

NORTH CAROLINA.

On the departure of the North Carolina battalion from Norfolk for their homes, Capt. McGeehey made them a very appropriate and encouraging address, congratulating Lieut.-Comdr. Cramer on the efficiency and good conduct of his command, and bidding with much feeling to the death of young Harry Gallant.

the 7th Regiment, Col. Wm. H. Skirm. and Gatling Gun Co. B, Capt. J. John R. Jones.

The Board of Officers of the 7th Regt. have published the roll of members distinguished for long and faithful service in the regiment. The list contains the names of 121 officers and men who have served in the regiment for ten years and upward. Among the earliest enrolments are Color Bearer P. D. Braisted, Jr., 1845; Hospital Steward W. B. Freeman, 1851; Maj. W. H. Kipp, 1857; Q. M. Sergt. H. Everdell, 1856, and Bandmaster C. A. Cappa, 1860.

Adj. Gen. Dyer, of Rhode Island, announces that in accordance with the recommendation of the Joint Special Committee of the General Assembly, appointed January Session, A. D. 1892, to recommend a suitable camp ground for the Rhode Island militia, Brig.-Gen. Hiram Kendall, commanding brigade R. I. M., is directed to locate his camp upon the land belonging to H. A. Wilcox, of Oakdale Beach, R. I., and upon the date ordered by Special Orders No. 41, A. G. O., c. a.

The 9th N. Y., Col. Seward, will be relieved at the State camp this afternoon (July 2) by the 14th Regt., Col. Harry Michell. The regiment will go as a two battalion organization, on account of having with it on the camp grounds enough of separate companies to make a third battalion. The 1st Battalion will consist of Cos. F, G, H and K, with Major Benjamin S. Steens in command. The 2nd Battalion, of Cos. B, C, H and L, will be in command of Capt. Wm. F. Morris, of Co. K, acting major. The 3d Battalion will consist of the 16th Sep. Co., of Catskill, commanded by Capt. Arthur M. Murphy; the 18th Sep. Co., of Glen Falls, Capt. James L. Garrett; the 20th Sep. Co., of Binghamton, Capt. Hiram C. Rodgers; the 21st Sep. Co., of Troy, Capt. Jas. H. Lloyd, and the 22d Sep. Co., of Malone, Capt. George W. Crooks.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

"The Military Schools of the United States and their Influence on the Nation," by Lieut. W. R. Hamilton, U. S. A., in Outing for July, handsomely illustrated, is one of the most noticeable articles of the number.

"A Queen of Curds and Cream," by Dorothea Gerard, is a novel full of unexpected incidents and surprises, and altogether a dramatic and thrilling story which keeps the reader's attention fixed without relaxation. The events take place in Austria and England. The volume is one of Appleton's Town and Country Library.

The July number of Food contains an unusually interesting article from the pen of a well known writer, William O. Stoddard, on the subject of transportation in its relation to the art of war in ancient and modern times. The varied aspects of the subject are well wrought out. The paper is illustrated with many attractive sketches by the artist Halm. The magazine is published by the Clover Publishing Co., 71-73 Park Place, New York.

"Anthony Melgrave" is a novel by Thomas McCaleb, published by G. P. Putnam's Sons. The scene is laid in Virginia not far from Washington, and the story is of unusual dramatic and romantic interest.

The work issued by Messrs. B. Westermann and Co., 812 Broadway, entitled "Old Sword Play," is by Capt. Hutton, a well known expert, and should attract the attention of the two services. It is compiled from works themselves extremely scarce and difficult to procure, and, as the publishers well say, it must be highly prized by collectors and connoisseurs, while the combinations set forth will also be found extremely useful as forms of "set play" for combat on the dramatic stage. Only 100 copies are published for America, at $6 each, and they are all numbered and printed in the best style on superfine Dutch paper, bound in buckram, with a special design for the cover. There are 57 illustrations.

NOAH WEBSTER would be surprised at the improvements which have been made in his famous old dictionary by modern scholars. The world grows and dictionaries with it, so that whoever wishes to get the best fruits of modern scholarship, as applied to Webster's work, should purchase Webster's International Dictionary, the recent successor of the original work, and a noble volume.

IMPORTANT NEWS

FOR STOCKHOLDERS
IN THE

Co-operative Town Company.

(Copy of Telegram.)

Bristol, Tenn., May 31, '92.
Hon. ROBERT P. PORTER, President,
Washington, D. C.

Contracts are closed and we have started
100 men to work on Bristol and Elizabethon
Railroad and force will be increased daily.

JNO. H. CALDWELL, V. P.

This means that by August 1 Elizabethon will have standard gauge railway connection to all northern points. It means, too, that the property of the Co-operative Town Company will that day be worth more than two dollars for every one put into it.

SERIES B STOCK IN THE

is continued on the market for a while longer.
The management, in view of a possible dividend in the near future, deem it desirable not to place a new series on at this time. This course is further sustained by the widespread popularity of Series B.

All classes of stock participate in earnings.
The instalment plan affords opportunity to investors of almost any means. Five shares can be carried for $5.25 a month, larger blocks in proportion.

A guarantee of safe and intelligent management is offered shareholders in the Cooperative Town Company in the personnel of its directory: Robert P. Porter, president;
Louis E. McComas, vice president; A. T.
Britton, treasurer, and John G. Carlisle,
Isham G. Harris and H. C. Hambrrough, directors.
